

How AC360's coverage is biased:

- The very title of the series prejudices viewers from the outset.
- Each accuser gets ample one-on-one face time with Cooper and the camera, but witnesses who were on-site and refute the charges are interviewed in groups of four or five.
- The group interviews are cut short, giving only a few seconds to each person's individual points.
- All AC360 promos and teasers show only detractors, never the refuting witnesses, e.g., the credible ex-wives, church executives.
- AC360 received "dozens" of letters and affidavits from on-site witnesses and character witnesses refuting the charges. Not a single quote from any letter or affidavit has been aired or shown on-screen.

This series is not reporting. It sensationalizes the claims of angry people who bring no proof, just hearsay.
